Dine in a real covered bridge! In 1975 the Covered Bridge Pizza Parlor in North Kingsville, Ohio, opened its doors. At the North Kingsville and Andover locations, the restaurant's are actually a piece of history. These unique eateries are actually restored pieces of an original covered bridge known as the Foreman Road Bridge, named for its location in Eagleville, Ohio. Built in 1862, its entire 126 feet and 55 tons were constructed of local lumber. Photo Credit: Walt Poff
